Subject: (ShapingSeattle) Comment about Project 3020114

Those in our neighborhood feel that this is a VERY BAD plan. Providing no parking takes away the limited parking there is from the existing home owners. It is naive to believe that none of the 56 residential units will own cars. They will all have to find street parking. Then the people either working in or shopping at the 4000 square feet of commercial space will also have to find parking. 65th has no parking as the street is very narrow. 67th already has traffic due to the Phinney Neighborhood Association, and the 1st block east of Greenwood has no parking and the rest of 67th going east has parking on only one side of the street.

I realize that Seattle is getting crowded and apartments are needed, but it is extremely short sighted to not take into account that people own cars. Bussing to downtown is easy. I never drive to town. But how do people get to Alderwood Manner, or go to dinner in Leshi? They aren't going to take Uber or a taxi every time they want to go somewhere other than downtown.

This project is going to be a parking nightmare for the residence of this neighborhood.
