

It feels as if the developer isn't listening to community concerns. It still seems odd the neighbors behind. It destroys an urban forest! It is out of scope for the neighborhood. The other concern is the over supply of housing. We don't want to end up with an empty building deteriorating and creating blight.

This project is just too big for the property. Just because you can doesn't mean you should. Speak truth to power - it's not appropriate.
