stated:

"According to City of Seattle staff, the BRT's last stop would be at 23rd Avenue E, approximately a half mile from the Project site."

The city's website for the Madison BRT line (also known as the RapidRide G Line) is depicted as extending to Madison St.'s intersection with Martin Luther King Jr. Way, which brings the BRT closer to the proposed project, and increases transit access to the proposed grocery store.

Thank you,
