I have lived here in Madison Valley for 28 years now and have seen it grow into a small, lovely and friendly community. The only downside is worse and worse traffic.

If this City People's project goes through, it will cause nightmarish traffic, in addition to increased pollution and environmental degradation. This is neither a healthy nor a friendly addition to our community. It appears instead to be yet another money-making scheme, no matter the consequences. The removal of trees and vegetation is in direct opposition to our city's core value of environmental stewardship. The addition of more high rent housing further degrades Seattle's vaunted ambition as a city for all.

Our community is too small to contain a large and popular supermarket, no matter how noble their mission may be or how healthy their food is.

Please quash this plan!

Thank you,
